Primary care is essential for a healthier life. At UrgentWay, our primary care services focus on preventative medicine - assisting in maximizing good health. Primary care services prevent illnesses through annual medical check-ups, age-appropriate screenings, female healthcare, and effective vaccinations.

We are currently facing a health threat unlike any other in our lifetime. We are all affected by the Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) pandemic and we must overcome this together.

There are certain ways, that we can fight it such as boosting our immune system. Our immune system is a complex network of cells, tissues, and organs that work together to defend against germs, infections, and diseases. The immune system helps our body to recognize "foreign" invaders and its job is to keep them out, or if it can't, to find and destroy them. If our immune system cannot do its job, then the results can be serious.

During the current COVID-19 pandemic, it is more important than ever to practice good health hygiene habits and build immunity that help prevent the spread of illnesses and other viruses like COVID-19. Also, health and safety tips can be found through the World Health Organization website:

<https://www.who.int/emergencies/diseases/novel-coronavirus-2019/advice-for-public>

Our board-certified physicians, registered nurses, and medical assistants work together to provide efficient and effective care. After much success at our four locations throughout New York City and Long Island, UrgentWay is expanding globally and will be providing medical care in Pakistan soon.

In Pakistan, we will be providing family medicine services along with aesthetic treatments. We know that it is a stressful time, but we are here to assist in whatever way we can!

"I am a woman, and I act like a woman. I appreciate myself. I trust and believe in God. I decorate the world with myself, helping it to become better. With an open heart, I help people. My path is the path of Goodness, Wisdom, and Love. I am a woman whose life has had falls and highs. But what is not normal is when you fall and do not rise. The one who does not rise, the loser. The winners fall and stand, They always get up, so they become the winner, such is the WINNER. I am a person who is hated because she is a kind, purposeful, beautiful, famous person and strive for happiness. I am striving for a lot, but some don't like it. I am a woman whom they love and respect. I believe in God. I love the world and myself in which I live. I respect those people who have a purpose in life. Believe in yourself and you will achieve all that you want. Strive for happiness and you will be happy. 10) Goals/Aspirations and hopefully be able to represent my country at the Miss Supranational International final in Poland. This would also help me take my campaign to an International level and help put a stop to period poverty worldwide.

To be successful independent woman to inspire many young women to go after their dreams

11) Any personal message

Don't be afraid to be yourself. When I was younger I wanted to be approved by everyone, was I skinny enough, pretty enough, was my opinion what they wanted to hear? I was so afraid to be me and when you're completely yourself and happy who you are that is when your inner beauty shows.

I have always been passionate about helping the homeless, having helped serve food at my local shelter, to offering my time over the Christmas periods at the local food bank. Back in 2015, I slept on the streets with a group of people raising £52,000 for our local shelter and it really opened my eyes. Having been competing in Miss Universe Great Britain taught me to shatter glass ceilings and anything is possible if you try and in 2017 The Monthly Visit was born. It is a non-profit organization and I distribute the products to local shelters and schools. My donations mainly come from friends, family, work, local businesses I contact, or people who find my page. It is incredible to see how generous people can be. Together we achieve more when we work as a team.

For her, Lebanon is an amazing country; however, the political system is corrupted and people in certain areas are having a hard time "coexisting" with one another. Brief story - what got you where you are today

I love God, my family, and my friends, that if you were ever told that you were an ugly person or you don't fit in the group, it doesn't matter. Some people were born to excel. The craziest thing about all this is that it was God's purpose, every step, every word, guided me to want to be better and bigger every day, do it all with love.

Today I am miss and this is the best thing that happened to me because my voice is heard more loudly, and you know what it means? That my life serves as an example for other people.

When you think about leaving the road, because there are many stones, don't do it. Because the promise of reward is very close, wait and fight, it's worth it.

12) Brief story - what got you where you are today

What has got me where I am today would be my foster mother. I am a firstborn of three girls. I lost my mom at the age of 6 years old. My father was a soldier. Whenever he went to the military, we would be left home alone with no one to cook nor give bath. We would always go walking around, begging for food.

It was really a bad situation but a blessing came our way and my foster mom saw us at the airport begging for food with no shoes on. We were barely naked in rugs. She immediately took us in as her own children and gave us love and care. She raised us with passion and provided us schooling of our own choice. She sacrificed her happiness for us. She is the reason why I am where I am today. She even hustled for my ticket to London - just for me to represent my country at the Miss World competition and for me to fulfill my dreams ... I really love and treasure her. She is the definition of empowerment because she has really empowered me. She has instilled a sense of humanity in me.

I would like to be the next Racheal Nyadak Paul by giving the same care and love to others around the world and also be a foster mom or sister to anyone out there. I would like to be an inspiration to young girls and women across the world. I would also like to thank you, Sharina World and Team, as well.

Fashion Trends For Spring 2020

Based on the past fashion Weeks in New York, London, Milan, and Paris, we have compiled a list of some of the most popular trends for the next season

Leather

Leather is the undisputed leader amongst the trends of the Spring - Summer 2020 Season. Black and brown leather pieces are rated as the most versatile and easy to wear. The perfect starting point for a stylish leather outfit!

Appliques & Embroidery

Previously designer brands opted for bright and high-contrast combinations; however, monochromatic floral embroidery or applique poetic coats have been fashionable this season

Checked Print

A checked print coat is a timeless classic of women's wardrobe, and a fitted coat is amongst the top fashionable style options

Tropics

Tropical prints are taking over this summer. This explosion of color and chaotic mix of all the flora and fauna of beaches, forests, gardens, islands and whatnot is exactly what we've been waiting for to balance everything out, if not to make us enjoy the hot season properly.

Zebra Print

While the leopard print is gradually losing ground, its place is taken by a black and white pattern like a Zebra. The best examples are from Ricardo Tisci and Dries van Noten.

Pastel Shade

Pastel clothing trend is totally in for the spring and summer seasons of almost every year. The world of pastel colors has so much to offer, but it has to be done right to avoid looking washed out. This type of coloring brings luxury to mind, candies, and innocence.

Neon

This fall, we fell in love with shoes in bright neon colors, and spring 2020 will be the season of fluorescent total bows. Neon clothing will always turn heads, but there are more subtle, grown-up ways to style it out—from blending with muted tones to opting for simple accessories.

Color Suits

Another way to diversify the boring office dress code. Pantsuits in bright colors only strengthened their positions in our wardrobe.

Men's Shirt

Feel free to remove the shirt from the shoulder of your husband or boyfriend to wear with pleated skirts, jeans, and even a dress

Polka Dots

Designers are digging in their luxury heels when it comes to the almighty dot - simply put, the trend shows no sign of slowing. Most of what was on the runway featured larger more bold polka dots, but any dots will do and if you are feeling really bold, why not go for a head to toe polka dotted outfit, like the one featured.

TIPS FOR A BETTER SLEEP HYGIENE

Do you often find yourself struggling to fall asleep? Don't worry, we have got a few tips for a better sleep hygiene. Improve your sleep with some positive and healthy lifestyle changes.

- 1) Maintain a regular sleep schedule; going to bed and getting up at the same time all seven days of the week helps set up your sleep-wake cycle
- 2) Avoid eating right before going to bed. Ideally take your last meal 4 hours before you intend to sleep. Also, avoid eating high carbs and fatty food at nighttime.
- 3) Avoid taking caffeinated drinks and alcohol before you go to bed.
- 4) Limit your screen time, make sure to put away your phones, laptops, ipads and any other gadget because the screen lights can alter the production of melatonin; a hormone that regulates the sleep-wake cycle.
- 5) Dim or switch off the lights in your bedroom before going to bed. Study suggests a dark and slightly cold room helps get you a good sleep.
- 6) Limit day time naps and go to bed at night only when you are sleepy and super tired.
- 7) You can do yoga or light exercises to relax yourself before going to bed. A warm shower also helps relax the body.
- 8) Avoid frequent clock-watching. Many people who suffer from sleep problems keep on checking their phones or watches to see the time. As mentioned earlier, no gadgets in the bed.
- 9) Get a comfortable mattress and a perfect pillow for your neck.
- 10) Lastly, and most importantly, train your mind to block out all the negative thoughts when you go to sleep. Meditate. Don't overthink when you're in bed. In fact, just don't think. Use your bed only to sleep or to have sex with your partner.

TIPS FOR HEALTHIER SKIN

DERMATOLOGISTS

RECOMMENDATIONS

Do Not Skimp On Protection

To make sure that you apply enough sunscreen (a key element in maintaining youthful skin), the president of the Women's Dermatological Community, Dr. Lisa Garner puts on palm (about half a teaspoon) a broad-spectrum sunscreen with SPF 30 or more and applies to the face, neck, and ears. "This amount is enough to apply the sunscreen in two layers, but I can be sure that I will not miss anything."

A Little Sun - Kissed

"A light tan rejuvenates the skin for years, leveling its tone," which, according to a recent study, is a key characteristic of young skin, says Cambridge-based dermatologist Ranella Hirsch.

Her personal choice: Olay Complete Touch of Sun Daily UV Moisturizer + a Touch of Sunless Tanner ($15), and a lotion with a slight tanning effect.

Best breakfast for skin

Doris Day, a New York dermatologist, begins her morning with an almond Breakfast : "Almonds contain essential fatty acids that help stop inflammatory processes that accelerate the appearance of wrinkles, sagging and rashes on the skin." If you don't like nuts , do your skin a favor by eating a dish of salmon, tuna, or halibut for lunch or dinner.

Avoid Bumps

"The constant jolts that your skin experiences during cardio exercises, such as running, can lead to weakened collagen and sagging skin," says Oakland dermatologist Katie Rodan. — Therefore, until the invention of t-shirt bras for the face, stick to bike and elliptical".

Aerosol Against Dryness

To keep your skin supple, Los Angeles -based dermatologist Jessica Wu sprays La

Roche-Posay Thermal Spring Water ($8.50) on it several times a day. Bonus: this product is filled with minerals , including selenium, which protect against harmful UV light.

Powder Protection

"Sunscreens lose their effect 3 hours after application, if not earlier, so you can't do without re-application," says Washington -based dermatologist Elizabeth Tanzi. — For easy correction, she uses Colorescience Pro Sunforgettable Powder SPF 50 ($60).

Care In Pairs

"Cross- care is the key to early recovery. Some ingredients, such as sunscreens and antioxidants in the morning and retinoids with peptides at night, work better in pairs , " advises new Orleans dermatologist Mary Lupo.

Vegetables On The Face

Frozen peas soothe itchy, irritated eyes. New Jersey dermatologist Jeanie Downey uses this method : "When I get home from work, I take off my makeup and put a pack of frozen peas on my eyelids for 5 minutes. "This helps reduce swelling and pigmentation in the eye area . Unlike ice, the bag of peas carefully takes the shape of the eyes for a speedy effect.

Cut Down On Sugars

The breakdown of sugars-glycation-damages collagen, which is responsible for the smoothness and elasticity of the skin. To prevent this natural process from getting out of control, Texas dermatologist Nayla Malik sticks to carbohydrates with a low glycemic index, such as whole grains. They are initially low in sugar, and the body absorbs them slowly, which helps reduce the loss of collagen.

Yoga

Although we are used to lying face -up for skin care at a dermatologist's appointment, Washington-based dermatologist Hema Sundaram advises, on the contrary, to lean face -down: "such as the embryo pose, the dog face - down and greeting the Sun improve blood circulation – and the influx of oxygen gives the face a pleasant glow." And this is not all the benefits of yoga for beauty: a recent study found that regular yoga classes reduce the inflammatory process and stress that accelerate skin aging.

Zen For The Skin

If anyone has a nervous profession, it's doctors. Sudden bursts of tension can increase the production of hormones that lead to rashes or worsen diseases such as psoriasis.

"Controlling stress helps soothe the skin – but it's easier said than done," says Los Angeles -based dermatologist Annie Chiu. A 10-minute break and applying a face mask helps her solve this problem. Another trick is to turn off your phone: " no smartphone after 8pm –" says Dr Chiu. "Even a little thing like that helps a lot."

Drink Tea

Back in her youth, new York dermatologist Amy Wechsler loved green and black tea for their taste. Now she drinks 3-5 cups a day for her skin. Research shows that these teas contain protective substances such as EGCG (the antioxidant epigallocatechin gallate) and theafavins, which protect the skin from cancer and collagen breakdown- the causes of wrinkles.

Gentle Cleansing

"A gentle cleanser is one of my top secrets," says Chicago – based dermatologist Johnny Breedon. She prefers CeraVe Hydrating Cleanser ($11), which contains ceramides – fatty substances that help retain moisture in the skin.

Healthy Body Great Skin

"I strictly do strength exercises and recommend that my clients only increase their loads with age ," says Los Angeles – based dermatologist Patricia Ferris. Goal: elastic skin from neck to toe as a result of tightened muscles. "It works like face fillers, only all over the body," Ferris explains.

Consume Less Sodium

Diet soda is a weakness of Kansas dermatologist Audrey Kunin, which she is not able to refuse. But when she found out that each of the 6 cans she drinks a day contains between 25 and 50 mg of sodium , leading to puffy eyes and a jawline, she switched to a soda that doesn't harm the skin: Diet Rite without

5 STEPS TO HAPPINESS

People commonly believe that it is hard to love themselves and some find it impossible. The following five simple steps will help you lead a happy life.

We live in a world where everyone is exposed to and influenced by social media. It has become a platform where everyone can share their opinions, thoughts, and random pictures with others in order to seek validation. This has led to a lot of people to be fake and probably without even realizing. We define ourselves by the set standards of society, number of likes or comments on our posts. Therefore, it is not surprising that in an attempt to be ideal for all, a person acquires only problems and self-doubt. But if you believe in yourself, the complexities are easy to handle.

As psychologists have found out, for a successful and happy life you must first accept and love yourself. Of course, you can carefully avoid this and try to change others. But sooner or later, the system will fail anyway, and you will have to face your fears. To change or not - the choice will always be yours. But before you answer this question, take a look at yourself? You can then think about whether such a life you dreamed would make you happy.

5 Steps To Happiness

First Step

Very often we belittle our merits and get used to hearing only criticisms. If your bosses or relatives notice you only when you did something wrong, take the initiative into your own hands. This does not mean at all that you need to be courageous and demand that you be praised every time. You will do it yourself. Every night, before going to bed, make a list of things you can praise yourself for. Rejoice at your achievements: the day will not live in vain, and you deserve a good rest.

Second Step

Some are so unaccustomed to hear compliments and receive gifts that, once in a similar situation, they begin to make excuses and belittle their merits. Learn to accept everything with gratitude and do not be shy. If you received a compliment, then you really deserved it.

Third Step

Daily practice with a mirror is considered the most effective in terms of full self-acceptance. Look carefully at your reflection and smile. And now, instead of worrying about things such as being overweight, find five virtues in your body that you can be proud of. Every day it is very important to switch your attention from a negative attitude to a positive one.

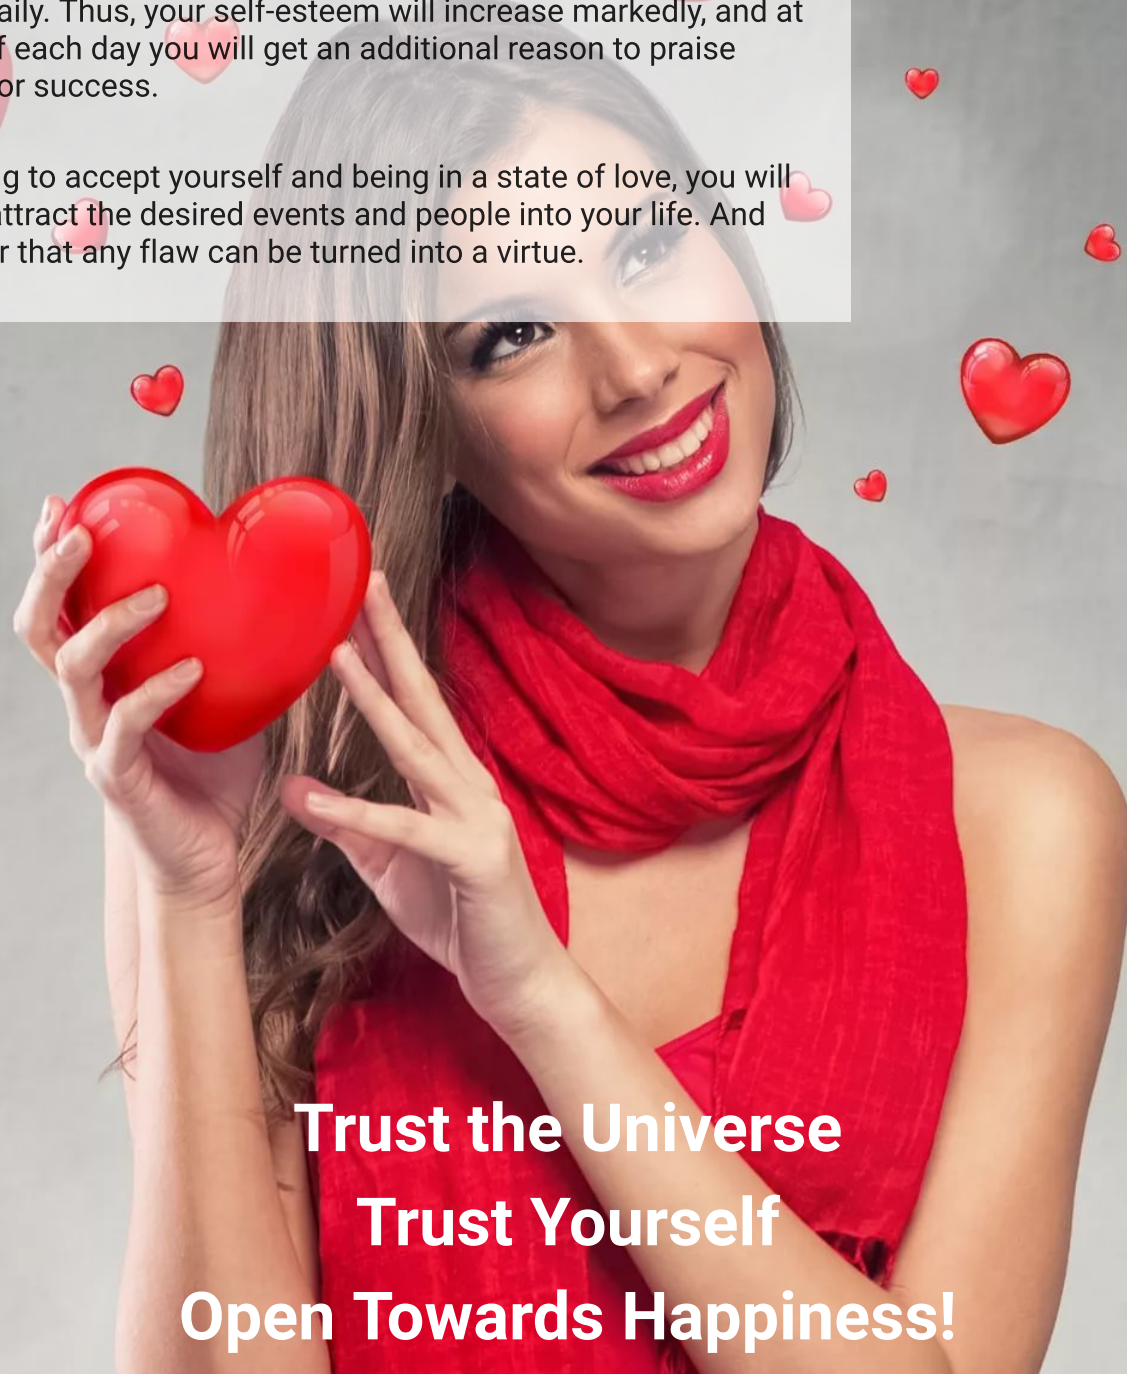

Fourth Step

The past very often tries to drag us into a maelstrom of thoughts and experiences that have long been irrelevant. But we do not stop scrolling through the situation and remember how difficult it was to part, dismissal, divorce, or any other life trouble. You should not look for the causes of failures only in yourself and constantly be angry with yourself for it. What has already passed, has passed. Just thank this situation for the experience, learn, and move on.

Fifth Step

By engaging in your favorite activity and continuing to learn something new, you improve and develop. If you consider limited knowledge of a foreign language your fault, set a goal, for example, to learn daily. Thus, your self-esteem will increase markedly, and at the end of each day you will get an additional reason to praise yourself for success.

By learning to accept yourself and being in a state of love, you will begin to attract the desired events and people into your life. And remember that any flaw can be turned into a virtue.

Lahore

Lahore is the capital of Punjab province and has many interesting historical attractions. One of the most remarkable FORTS in Pakistan is the Lahore Fort, a magnificent example of Mughal architecture. The Fort, built in 1566 by Mughal Emperor Akbar, has been destroyed and rebuilt many times throughout history, but what remains is well preserved. The Lahore Fort contains stunning marble palaces and mosques, each intricately decorated with colorful mosaics. Another attraction worth visiting in Lahore is the Shalamar gardens. This Royal complex is located just 7 km from the Lahore Fort. The gardens were influenced by Persian and Islamic traditions, and are a Prime example of Mughal gardens. Both sites were declared a UNESCO world heritage site in 1981 for their outstanding universal value.

Wazir Khan Mosque - located in the old quarter of the fortified city of Lahore, a short walk from Fort Lahore.

Badshahi Mosque, located west of Fort Lahore, was built in 1673 by Mughal Emperor Aurangzeb and is the second largest mosque in Pakistan (accommodating over 100,000 people). The architecture is super class - mughal era trends clearly visible all around.

Sikh Gurdwara, which is nearby, gives a unique message of peace - clearly indicating that all religions can worship with equal rights and peace.

Sind

If you want to know more about the ancient history of Pakistan, you should visit the province of Sind. Sind is home to some of the country's most important historical sites, including the archaeological ruins of Mohenjo Daro (one of the six UNESCO World Heritage Sites in Pakistan). Mohenjo Daro, built around 2500 BC, was one of the largest and most developed cities in the world during the Indus civilization and remain as one of the best-preserved urban settlements in Asia.

Along with desert areas, Bahawalpur is known as a country of lush gardens that sooth your eyes, while magnificent palaces cannot but impress you.

Fort Ranikot

Ranikot, with a circumference of about 26 km, is the largest fort in the world. However, this was not enough to convince the authorities to develop it as a major tourist attraction. This fort is easily accessible from Karachi via the National Highway. This is a one-hour trip to Sann, home of Cindy's nationalist grandmaster Syed.

Karachi

Karachi is amongst the largest city proper in the world. Ranked as a beta global city, the city is Pakistan's premier industrial and financial centre, and is Pakistan's cultural, educational, and political hub. Tourists will have a great time cliff jumping, snorkeling, scuba diving, sailing, and enjoying other water sports activities.

Pakistan has more peaks taller than 22,965ft than China and Nepal combined, making it an almost magnetic spot for adventure travellers and intrepid hikers (8 of the World's 20 Tallest Mountains). Pakistan is a beautiful country and home of some of the best hiking in the world. Towering mountains, lush valleys, dramatic rivers and lakes. Some of the spectacular treks in Pakistan are:

Fairy Meadows and Nanga Parbat Base Camp

Fairy Meadows is a truly amazing place. It's not just the name that's mythical, the place itself is magical. If you go at the right time of the year, i.e. when it's not covered in snow, you can push on to Nanga Parbat Basecamp – an 8 hour round trip hike. Looking down over the Fairy Meadows is the snowy fortress of Nanga Parbat (9th highest in the world).

Besides all these attractions and more, what makes Pakistan so special is the world-class hospitality that you will find throughout the country. Combined with so much natural beauty, it is not surprising that tourism is growing in Pakistan every year.

WEALTH MANAGEMENT

Taking care of your wealth often requires you to get into investment and to perform other steps that may be new to you. Wealth management is the process of using the financial assets you have accumulated to create the best lifestyle possible. Wealth management can be broken down into three different parts. All three must work together and are necessary for success.

- ▶ Financial Plan and Timeframe: Helps you determine the goals, short term and long term, you are trying to achieve with the wealth you have, and provide a clear plan of action for how to make that happen.
- ▶ Investment Portfolio: Investment decisions have an enormous impact on your ability to achieve your goals. With a plan in place, all investment decisions become a simple matter of choosing the most appropriate investment allocation to achieve the goals.
- ▶ Review and Rebalance: You should review your portfolio at least annually to make sure your asset allocation stays on track. During your review, you may decide to rebalance your portfolio – that is, change the proportion of assets you hold. This will involve selling some investments and buying others. When you rebalance, you need to think carefully about the costs and tax implications.

Wealth Management sounds simple, when you break it down as above, but multiple variables are involved and it is easy to be overwhelmed. Mistakes can have a huge adverse impact. Trusted financial advisors manage the variables for you, so that you enjoy your wealth.
